SGPGI Anti-Ragging Committee & Dr Dinesh Chandra, Member Secretary, SGPGI Anti-Ragging Committee emphasizing the importance of collective responsibility in preventing ragging and ensuring a safe campus for all students.

Students of the College of Medical Technology enthusiastically participated in a series of awareness and sensitization activities conducted throughout the week. On 13th August, students participated in a Nukkad Natak, highlighting the psychological, social and legal consequences of ragging and promoting empathy, mutual respect and responsible behaviour.

A Wellness Workshop on 14th August focused on emotional well-being and support, followed by an Awareness and Sensitization Programme on 15th August. On 16th August, students participated in a Door-to-Door Awareness and Sensitization Programme, interacting with their peers and residents to spread the message of a zero-tolerance approach towards ragging.

On 17th August, students actively participated in Slogan Writing and Rangoli Competitions, creatively expressing messages of friendship, dignity, respect and a ragging-free environment. The week concluded on 18th August with Report Presentation and Validation, reviewing and consolidating the various awareness initiatives undertaken during the programme.

The participation of CMT students was coordinated by Dr. Krishna Kant, Tutor, College of Medical Technology, and Ms. Amrita Shree, MLT, who facilitated and encouraged student participation in the various activities conducted during the Anti-Ragging Week.

The active participation of College of Medical Technology students reflected their commitment towards creating a safe, supportive and inclusive academic environment. Through creative expression, peer interaction and awareness activities, the students contributed meaningfully to strengthening the message of "Say No to Ragging" and fostering a culture of mutual respect, dignity and responsible citizenship within the campus.
